

30 : Talking about a project

Role Play

Ken : Hey, how's the new project going?

Jun : I'm trying hard, but seems like I'm stuck.

Ken: What do you mean? Any problems?

Jun : It's a bit behind schedule. Actually, getting so late.

Ken : Well, I guess your original plan was not that realistic?

Jun : Maybe. But I already promised our client to deliver our service next month. They are expecting that. What should I do?

Ken : Ok, how about this. I'll give you a hand as soon as I finish my project. I know your client is also important to our department. That way, you can get your project in on schedule.

Jun : Thank you, I appreciate it! That means a lot to me.

Ken : Don't mention it. You also helped me before when I needed it.

Let's talk

- Have you made any stupid mistake (small one) at work?
- What did you learn from that experience?

Talk about your work :

Good side about your work

Bad side about your work

Vocabulary & Expressions

due date = closing date = deadline date
submit the report = hand in the report behind schedule ⇔ ahead of schedule

- That's not really an option.
- I'll see what I can do.
- I'm working on it now.
- Thank you, I owe you one.
- There's nothing to worry about.
- Everything is going so well.
- I'm not sure if that is possible.
- What do you think is the best thing to do?
- It should be possible to make it in time.
- This project is so frustrating / exciting.
